The Weekly Newsletter of the Bring Bruce Bayside Fund

Fundraising Continues on All Fronts!

The BBB Fund is a cause that has swept not only the United States but also fandom around the world. While North American fans continue to show their overwhelming support for the idea, Australian Fandom's generosity is nothing short of inspirational. And now, with some effective prodding from Mark Plummer and Claire Brialy, UK Fandom has started to get into the spirit.

Few causes have unified fandom like this one. But then few causes have had the universal appeal of the campaign to bring Bruce Gillespie to the 2005 Corflu and Potlatch conventions. It's easy to see why: Bruce Gillespie is extraordinarily worthy of such an honor and his varied fan interests make him relevant to an unusually wide range of fans.

The fundraising drive is far from over, though. If you've been postponing making a contribution, now is the time to scratch a check or use PayPal (details later in this issue) so you can hold your head high when you walk among fellow fans.

Speaking of the shame of being a non-contributor, we are toying with a new money-mooching strategy. Instead of thanking those who have given, there is a suggestion that we target those who have not done so.

The proposal is that we write about each and every one of them in a highly derogatory manner. Fandom's most savage humorists would take turns launching buzz bombs at those who have been slow to reach for their wallets.

Now, I (Arnie), ever the benevolent Trufan, have resisted this plan. I don't know how long I can hold out, though, so you might want to shoot a few bucks to the BBB Fund just in case my stalwart defense falters under overwhelming assault.

A Message from Bruce

Informed that the Bring Bruce Bayside Fund had reached the $2,500 plateau that ensures the trip, Bruce Gillespie sent the following statement, a letter to all of those whose support have made the BBB Fund such a success.

"I am moved and astonished by the support given from fans all over the world, but especially in America, Australia and Britain, to the Bring Bruce Bayside (BBB) fund. It started with suggestions from Marty Cantor and Robert Lichtman; Joyce and Arnie took up the task of collecting money; Ted White made the first donation; Bill Wright became Australian administrator; Irwin Hirsh volunteered to edit The Incomplete Bruce Gillespie, and suddenly the whole show was on the road. I've hardly had to do a thing except stand here with my jaw gaping and a silly smile on my face.

"Thank you, everyone who has helped raised the price of an air ticket - - the One Per Centers, the people who've bid on the auction (thanks in particular to auction organiser Robert Lichtman), the people and organisations who've made astonishingly large donations (the Conflux Committee and the Victorian Science Fiction Conventions organisation come to mind immediately; but there are quite a few others); and the people who've already “To Joyce and Arnie, and to Bill, I owe far more than I can say. Joyce has suffered from a severe health problem almost from the day after the fund began, and that has made her life difficult and also affected Arnie's life severely; and Bill has been battling some real health problems as well. To Irwin Hirsh, and Mark Plummer and Claire Brialey, who joined the team slightly later, also many thanks – and my best wishes for a continued lack of health problems.

“At the beginning of this year I kept thinking to myself: ‘When will something really good happen?’ Lo and behold! it has. Thanks everyone. I'm looking forward to seeing everybody next February and March.

—Bruce Gillespie, July, 2004.”

The Incomplete Bruce Gillespie

Thanks to stalwart work by Irwin Hirsh, ably assisted by Bill Wright and Bruce himself, The Incomplete Bruce Gillespie is published and ready for your edification and delight.

The beautiful 40-page compendium features some of Bruce Gillespie's best personal, sfnal and fannish writings, and is profusely illustrated and impeccably printed. While the leather-bound version is not yet available to the general public, you can order the lovely one we have for $10 (cheap).

Send your orders to either Joyce Katz or Bill Wright (see page 2 for contact info) and it will be mailed out from Australia as quickly as we can bully Bruce into posting it.
